

Have you used the following study methods?

- Pre-reading the book material before class
- Taking notes from the board in class
- Taking notes from the instructor's discussion in class
- Organizing your thoughts in class
- Asking questions of the instructor in class
- Asking questions of your classmates in class
- Rewriting your notes after class
- Organizing the material in your head outside class
- Asking questions of the instructor outside class
- Asking questions of your classmates outside class
- Compiling a list of important theorems
- Compiling a list of vocabulary words
- Creating flash cards to help you memorize the vocabulary words
- Doing some homework problems on a separate sheet of paper with the book closed.
- Doing all homework problems.
- Analyzing steps taken in homework problems.
- Doing additional homework problems.
- Creating your own exercises to practice
- Creating your own practice test.
- Going to the math help room.
- Going to office hours.
- Seeing a tutor.

Have you used the following study methods?

- Pre-reading the book material before class
- Taking notes from the board in class
- Taking notes from the instructor's discussion in class
- Organizing your thoughts in class
- Asking questions of the instructor in class
- Asking questions of your classmates in class
- Rewriting your notes after class
- Organizing the material in your head outside class
- Asking questions of the instructor outside class
- Asking questions of your classmates outside class
- Compiling a list of important theorems
- Compiling a list of vocabulary words
- Creating flash cards to help you memorize the vocabulary words
- Doing some homework problems on a separate sheet of paper with the book closed.
- Doing all homework problems.
- Analyzing steps taken in homework problems.
- Doing additional homework problems.
- Creating your own exercises to practice
- Creating your own practice test.
- Going to the math help room.
- Going to office hours.
- Seeing a tutor.